I'm a working wife and I love it!"
"My grandmother used to think that no woman could handle two jobs and do them both well without courting a nervous breakdown or risking an unhappy marriage.
"But neither my home nor my health suffers because I have two jobs . . . thanks to electricity!
"And my husband doesn't dine on canned beans, either. Cooking a full-course meal is quick and easy on my electric range . . . and some dishes can be prepared and left to oven-cook while I'm at work.
"Dishes and washing-out-a-few-little-things are done in a jiffy because our electric water heater keeps plenty of water hot and ready.
"A quick once-over every morning or night with my vacuum cleaner keeps things clean and neat.
"Breakfast is both satisfying and quick . . . thanks to my electric toaster, waffle-iron, and coffee-maker.
"No stay-in-the-kitchen-'til-ten-o'clock nights for me . . . I'm sitting down watching television with my husband long before Grandma would have been finished . . . even though I've already done an 8-hour day on my job!"

APPOMATTOX 1951 AUTO DEATHS NUMBER FOUR

Appomattox County had a better traffic fatality record in the year of 1951 than in the former year a check with the local State Police Station this week revealed.

1951 closed with the score of fatalities standing at four while the 1950 total was five. The number of accidents and injured was not available at the local station.

MILK USED AS A SOURCE OF HEAT

Milk as a source of heat has been tested at Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station.

Leon F. Charity, agricultural engineer at the Station, says the research was conducted on the problem of heating water using the heat pump principle. The heat was obtained from cooling milk in a mechanical milk cooler.

Charity said his tests, which were during the summer and fall months of 1951 in Virginia, showed that if a dairy farmer producing 40 gallons of milk per day would use the heat from the milk to preheat water, he could save more than half the amount he now spends for heating water by electricity.

In Virginia, this would mean an annual saving to dairy farmers of over $125,000.
